Online Tax & Accounting Information

Whether you are working solo or within a team, you need to find accurate answers and quickly understand how those answers apply to the unique circumstances of your client or business.

What if you could minimise risk and keep ahead of regulatory changes to provide tangible value beyond just a quick phone call and justify your effort?

In a digital era where information is freely available and unmonitored, do you have a plan of how you verify accuracy and currency? Checkpoint provides trustworthy answers. You have access to a platform enhanced with tailored search options, so you and your team have direct access to a wealth of compliance, advisory information and tools essential to fit your practice.

Here is how Checkpoint can help your practice

Make better decisions

Get a complete picture with in-depth analysis and guidance across a broad range of trusted resources with links to the related legislation, rulings and cases. You get all this from one solution specifically designed for tax practitioners to simplify tax research.

Plain Language Search

We understand that searching technical content is complex and time consuming, particularly for a non-research specialist. To improve your search experience, we have added a natural language search option to Checkpoint, maximising the value you can get from your trusted and comprehensive tax reference library.

Get insights on the latest tax reforms

Thomson Reuters is an industry leader, with news publications such as Weekly Tax Bulletin. You can get the insights to stay on top of the latest tax reforms through our news services, or regular updates through our range of tax and tax-related Handbooks.

of firms are worried that the constant changing of taxation rules is putting them and their clients at risk of non-compliance.<sup>1</sup>

Be consistent in your approach

With the challenge of hiring and maintaining staff, it's important to ensure that your business has consistent research practices, so you don't spend all your time verifying other people's work. With a range of toolkits and analysis, enhanced by tracking features, you can be more efficient in completing complex compliance work.

Take control of your workflow

Reduce your research time with automated alerts notifying you of changes and create direct links to important resources. The value to your answers is what it enables you to accomplish, whether it's analysis or news, you can start from any entry point and click through to deeper levels of coverage. Then, easily save references so you back up your findings.

Be supported from the day you get started.

Training for users is included at no added cost, plus unlimited phone and email support ready to assist with your queries.
